Janette Lumibao, married to a farmer with 5 children, a resident of Isabela, a province where agriculture, mainly rice with a relatively huge corn crop is the biggest industry. She is fifth of the seven offspring rising from a family whose basic income relies from buy and sell items which her mother largely depended on. She took up vocational course in Cosmetology when she finished highschool which turned to be a good option because it serves as her only way to earn easy money at this time, doing manicure and pedicure among the neighborhood and elsewhere. She has been into a couple of short term jobs like selling goods in the wet market, and being a merchandiser assistant just to produce a living. So to create a more stable source of bringing in money, she decided to work abroad and get to work to Bahrain. Despite the country's strategic location she was never undermined to go, to secure her children's future.
